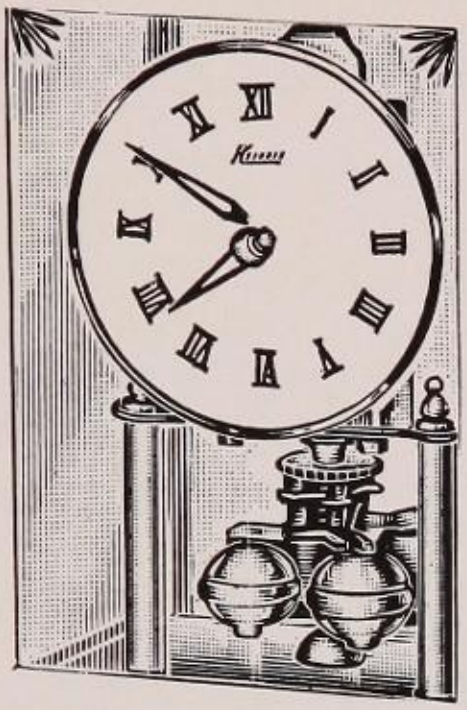
"Moments to Remember"



at

Gerstmeyer Technical High School

Terre Haute, Indiana

SCARABAEUS

Produced by The Yearbook Club

Excitement and confusion of registration day . . . breakfast in the cafeteria before school starts . . . inspiring moments in the classroom . . . the time our homeroom won the magazine drive . . . the coronation of our best friend as football or basketball queen . . . gay romantic hours as we danced at the junior prom . . . the thrill of winning the city championship . . . even the time we had to stay for the eighth hour we thought we didn't deserve . . .

. . . . . these are moments we will long remember!

Administration and Academics 4 . . . . Clubs and Activities 29 . . . . Classes 55 . . . . Athletics 85 . . . . Vocational 97 . . . . Ads 120 . . . . Index 137.

The aged outline of Gerstmeyer Technical High School represents the thousands of students who have passed through her halls. Studying, playing — learning, they have gained the knowledge to take their places in life.

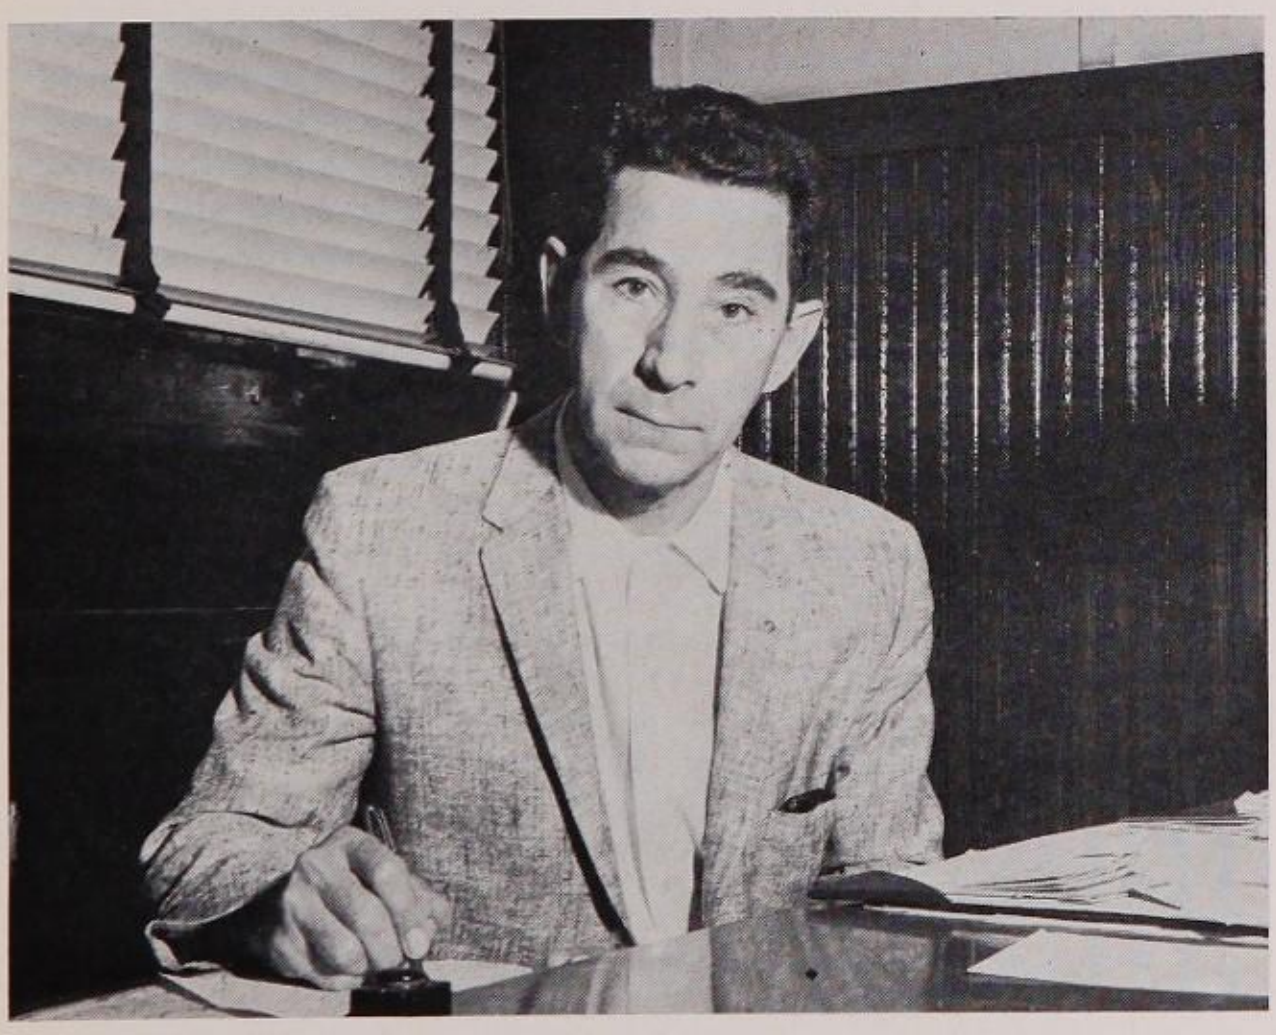
Gerstmeyer opened its doors to the boys of Terre Haute in 1915 and to girls the following year. It was not until 1925, however, that the girls' vocational school was moved to join the boys' vocational school at its present location.

This year another senior class departs from Gerstmeyer, but memories linger on. The halls ring with the voices of students present and echo with those of students past.

Gerstmeyer is honored by having as its principal a man who has the interest of students and faculty alike at heart. With Principal Noel B. Douglass at the helm, sailing through the school year has been comparatively smooth. Registration has been simplified, new clubs have been added and the business of school life in general has progressed at a healthy pace.

In the two years he has been at Gerstmeyer, Mr. Douglass has gained the respect and admiration of the faculty and student body, as well as the townspeople.

MRS. MARY RECORDS, dean of girls and senior girls' counselor, came to Gerstmeyer in 1936, and has served as a counselor and dean of girls for the past ten years. Mrs. Records also teaches trigonometry and sponsors the Future Teachers chapter at Tech. In the past she has taught English and physical education and has been an active leader in the Y-Teens.



MR. JOHN VALLE, dean of boys and senior boys' counselor, celebrated his silver anniversary at Gerstmeyer February 15. He has been dean of boys for the past eight years. He teaches a class in related printing at present. For many years he taught printing classes and supervised production work in the Tech Print Shop.

MISS ALKAN VAN ULZEN has been girls' Counselor for the past ten years. She is co-sponsor of the Student Council and teaches economics.

Previously, Miss Van Ulzen taught speech and drama at Tech.

MRS. MARY ANN KELLER graduated from Gerstmeyer last June. She is now serving as secretary to Miss Van Ulzen.

MR. FRANK MAYFIELD, counselor to junior boys, is seated in his office talking to a student while Mr. Maver Gibbs, counselor to freshmen and sophomore boys, takes an active interest.

Mr. Mayfield has been a counselor since 1946 and currently teaches a class in guidance. He formerly coached football and taught physical education.

Mr. Gibbs assumed the role of counselor this year after spending three years teaching wood shop and machine shop. He now teaches two shop classes.

MISS BEATRICE DUENWEG, registrar, came to Gerstmeyer in 1946 and worked in the main office until 1954.

Miss Duenweg keeps a complete record of information pertaining to student and faculty.

Waiting in line to get locker keys from Miss Duenweg is an experience familiar to all students.

MRS. AGNES RHOADS assumes the responsibility of keeping the main office running smoothly. She is a newcomer at Gertsmeyer this year.

Mrs. Rhoads keeps a record of all finanical transactions, duplicates bulletins, handles telephone calls and handles the many details necessary to smooth operation. Students beat a path to her door to buy pencils, notebooks, pens and erasers.

English

Dennis Berry and John Watts, junior English students, seek to improve their reading speed by using reading machines in the library.

As an outgrowth of the study of Shakespeare's Macbeth, senior English students take an active interest in the theatre of that day. Below, students are shown studying a miniature replica of a Shakespearean theatre.

Speaking, one of the four basic English skills, is very much in evidence as Georgia Hatfield, freshman, gives a talk in front of her freshman English class. The other basic skills stressed are reading, writing and listening.

Delegates to the Indiana High School Press Conference at Franklin last October check the conference program to decide which of the many sections they will attend. Pictured are Mickey Dugger, Wayne Otte and Barbara Hickman who campaigned for an office.

Journalism

The copy deadline finds members of the journalism class busily engaged in writing copy. Fair weather or foul, The ANVIL must come out on schedule. No self-respecting editor or reporter would say, "I can't."

Social Studies

Election year finds members of the government class taking an active interest in voting. Below, students get a demonstration of a model voting machine.

Know your country would be a good motto for U. S. history students. Students pictured make active use of the globe to help them to do so.

Our place in the scheme of things is important to World History students. What relationship the United States has to the rest of the world historically and geographically interests the group.

Preparing for their annual trip to Muscatatuck State School, members of the Sociology class collect toys and gifts to present to the children on their arrival.

With the new emphasis put on math by conquests of outer space, Geometry III students, who have already gotten a new room in which to work, prepare to meet the challenges of the new world.

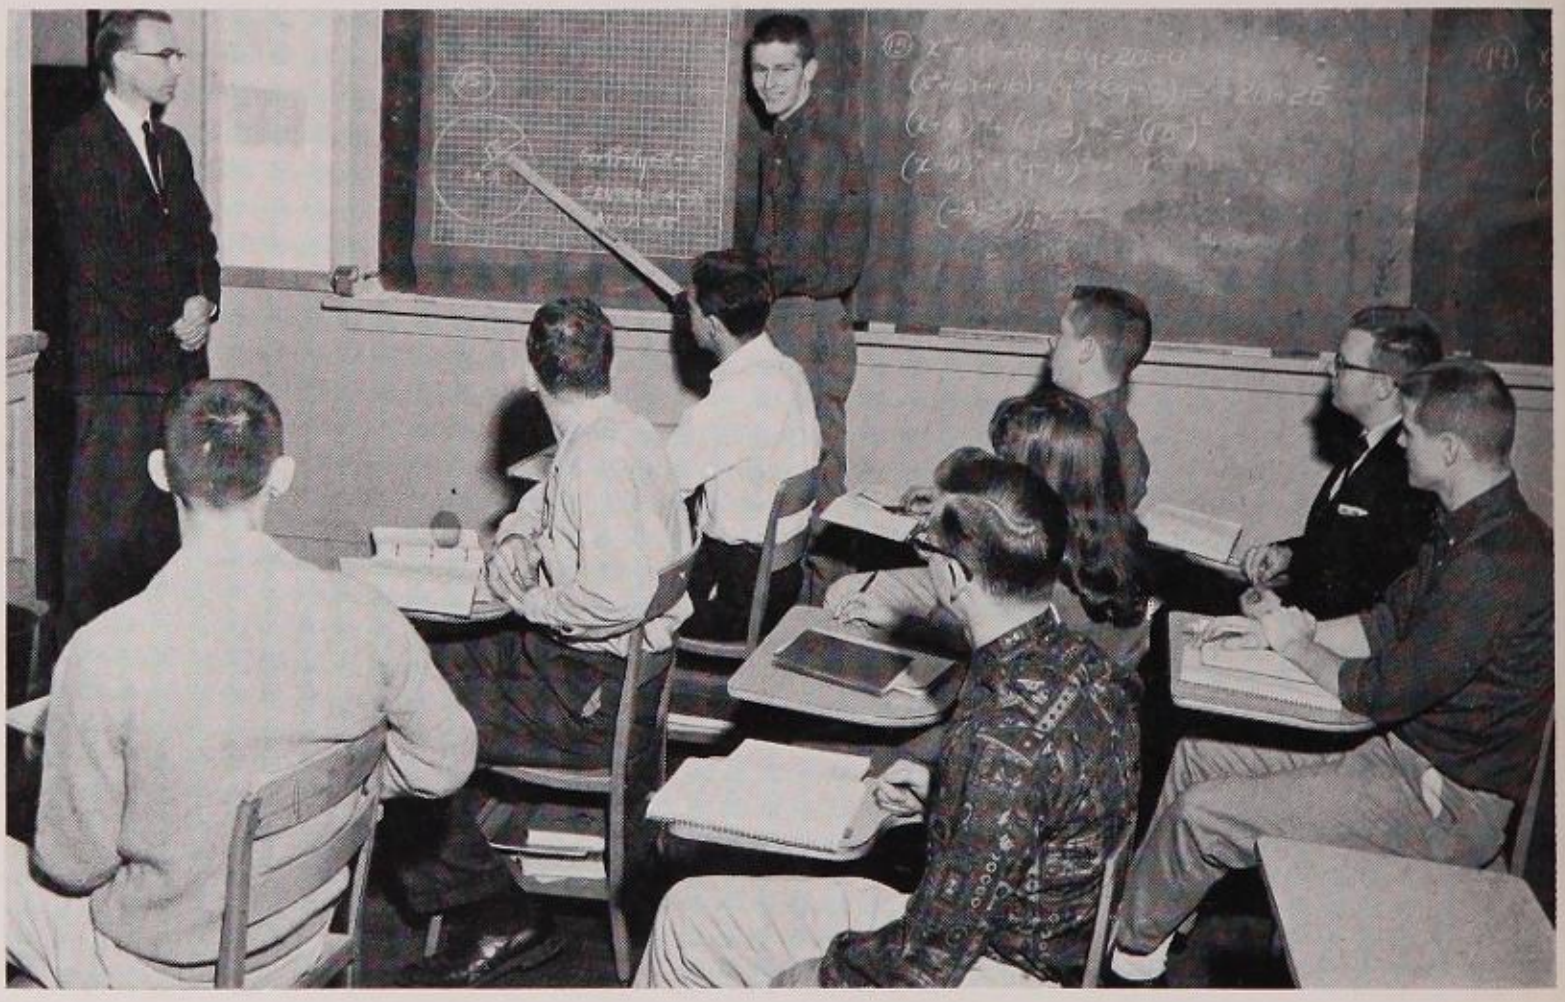
Math



Math analysis is a fascinating study and one which helps to sharpen the wits of the math whizzes. More students are now taking higher math as a result of higher college entrance requirements.

Math

ROBERT FIESS
Math

College algebra keeps these students on their toes. A familiar sight is a student sitting in Mrs. Record's office for a bit of extra tutoring.

MRS. CHARLOTTE SISSON
Math

Bisection of triangles is the lesson of the day, and these students are making a concerted effort to master that lesson.

MISS ALICE PETERS
French, Spanish

Foreign Language

Parlez-vouz Francais? Conversational French and Spanish is stressed in foreign language classes. As well as mastering fundamentals of the languages, students study customs and backgrounds of the countries. French Christmas cards and a Spanish luncheon were special projects this year.

Art

The art room is always the scene of activity. Posters for plays, revues, open house and many other occasions occupy students' time. Four full years of art are offered. Classes range from simple lettering to portrait painting and commercial art.

MR. RICHARD WERNEKE

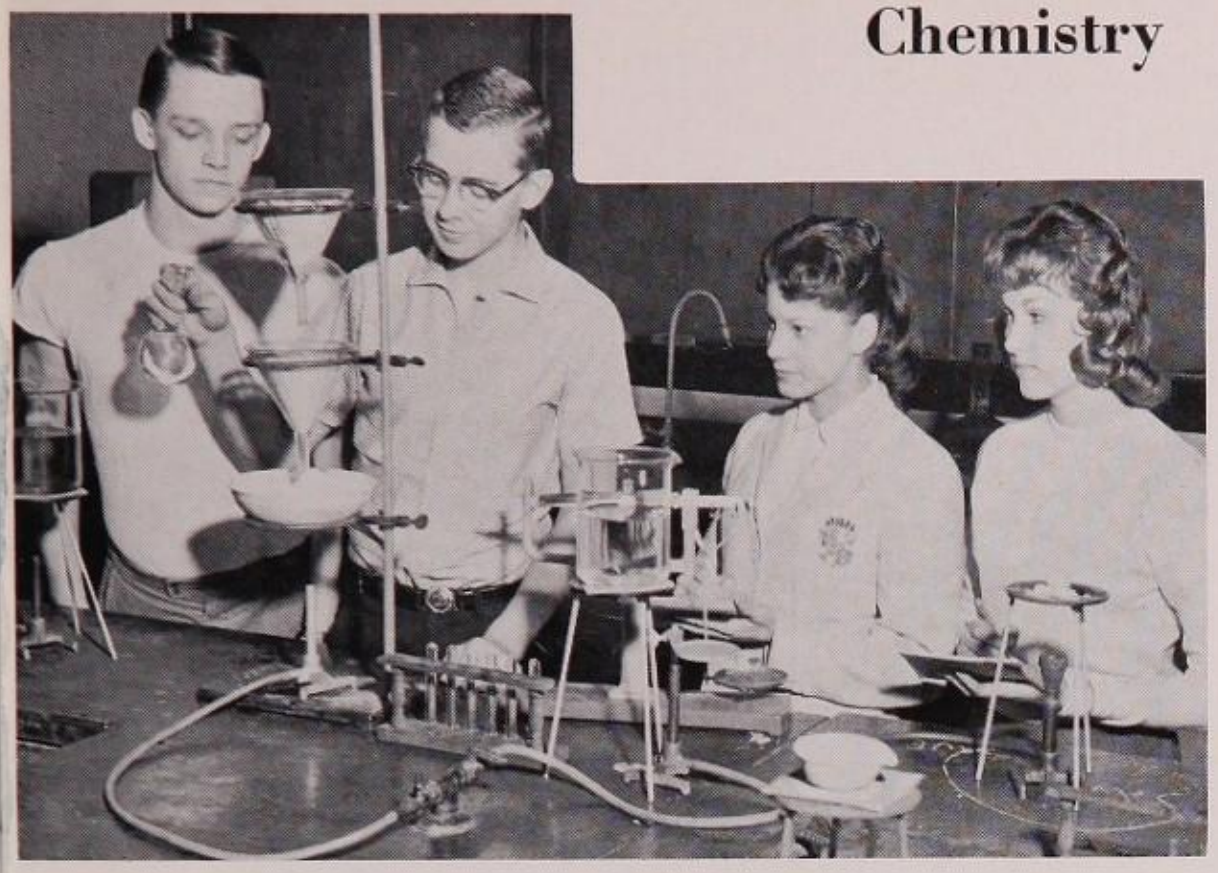
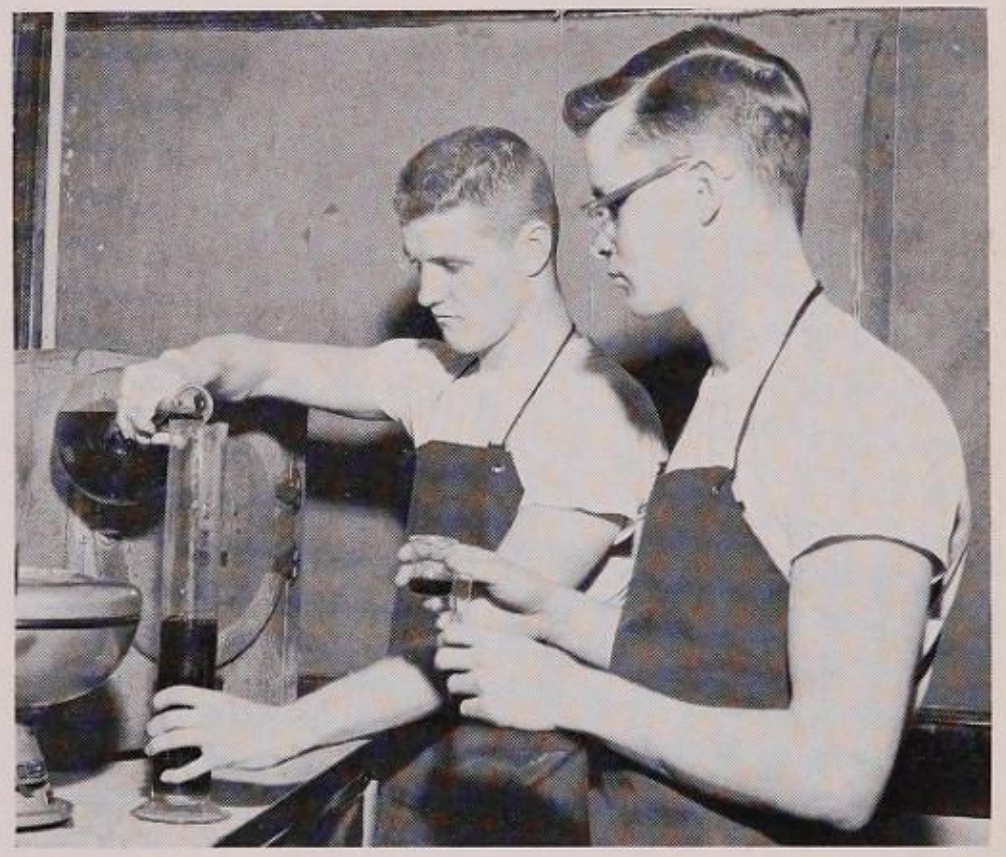
Chemistry

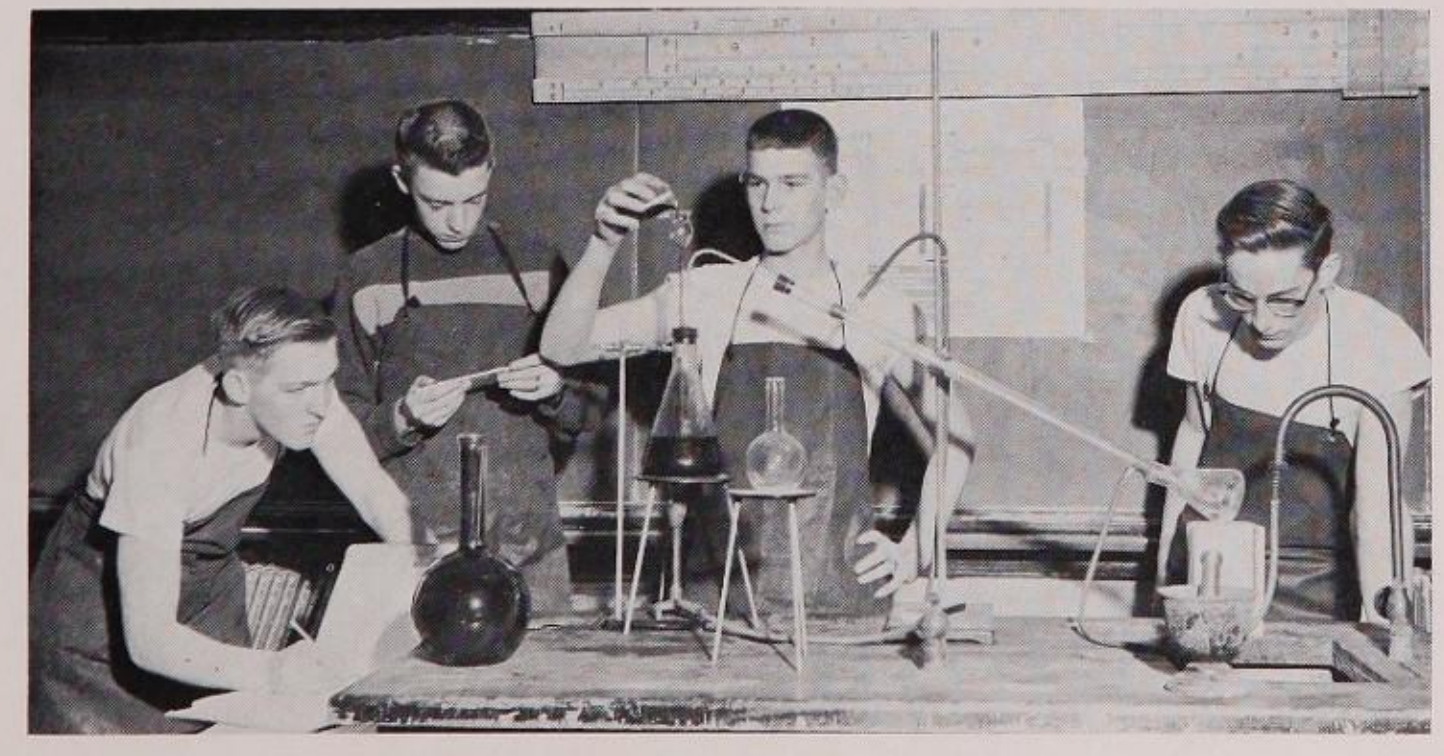


MR. WILBUR RUSSELL
Chemistry

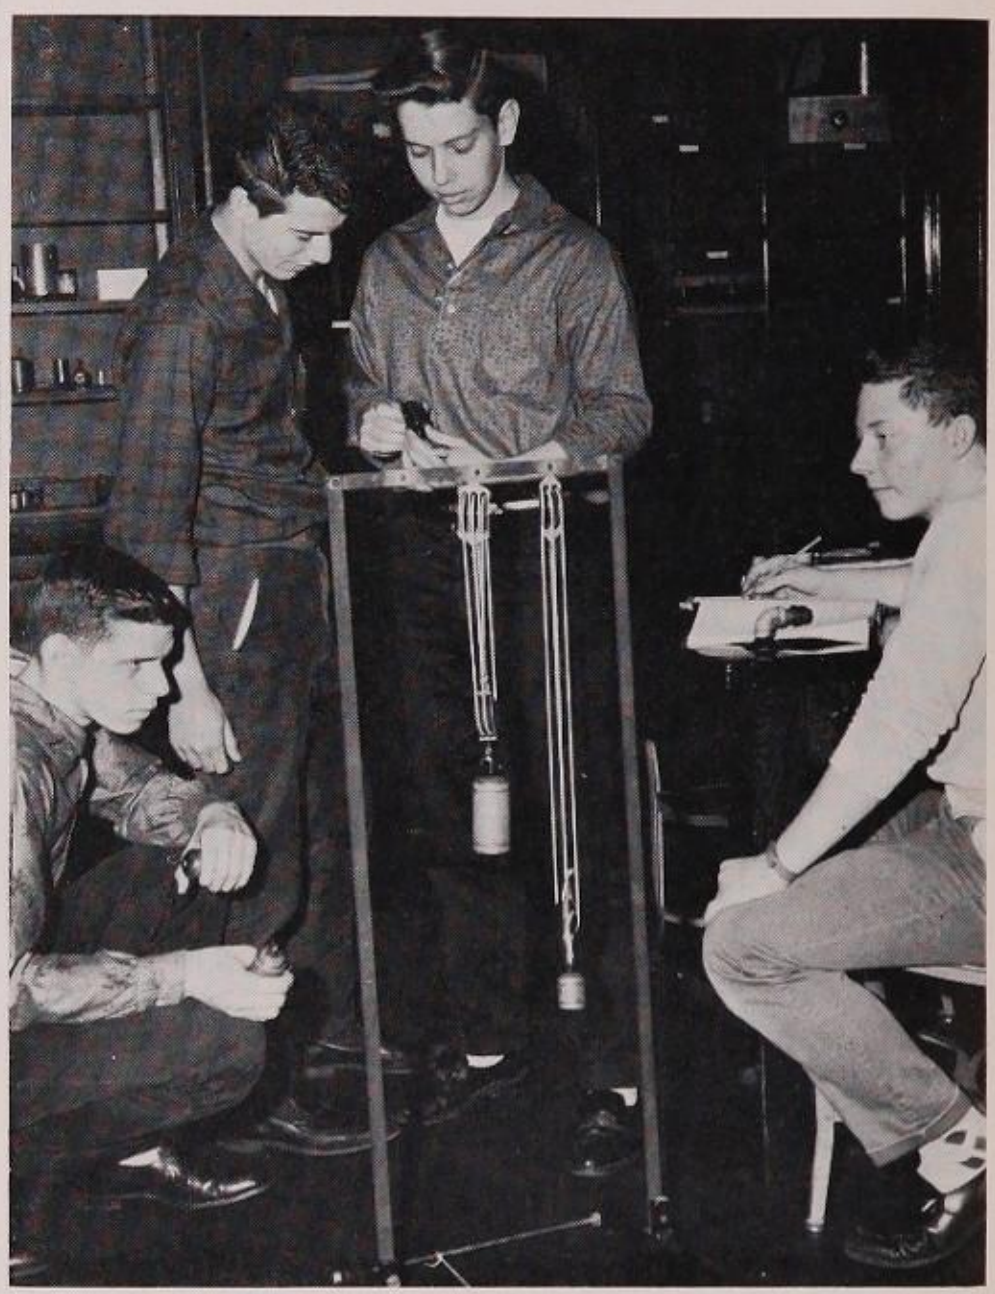
Through the doors of the chemistry lab pass the doctors, nurses, technicians and research scientists of tomorrow. They are willing to brave chemistry lab "smells" in the interest of science. The fumes hood installed last year helps to alleviate this problem.

Lab buddies on this page are shown performing experiments which consume a large portion of their time spent in chemistry class.

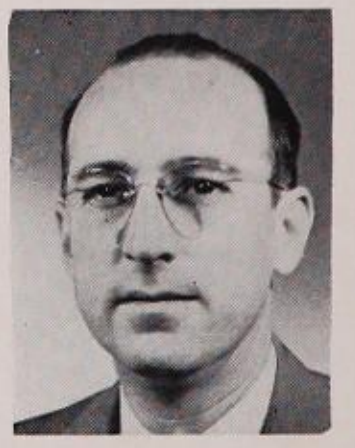




Physics



Physics, once considered strictly a study for boys and "brains," has come into its own with the atomic age. At Gerstmeyer this year 106 students have enrolled in this study. As long as ignorance about the forces of nature remains, physicists will be at work in their laboratories, as are the novices pictured on this page.



MR. CONRAD FOX
Physics, Math

Physiology

Disection of animals to study various bodily functions holds the interest of these students. By studying the lower animals, they are better able to understand their own bodies.

MR. WILLIAM WELCH
Biology, Physiology

Biology

How much do you know about your circulatory system? What is the aorta? Two students conduct a demonstration below while the teacher makes use of charts. The student with a weak stomach or fear of snakes and such is the object of many time-worn jokes in the biology lab.

CLOTHING CLASSES ATTRACT MANY GIRLS

The clothing department received national recognition this year when Miss Martin and some of her students were featured in "Modern Teacher" magazine. Students here measure carefully before cutting material.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH?

Foods students exercise extreme care in preparing the luncheons and dinners which they will serve to invited guests for class credit. They hope to be preparing meals for their own husbands in the not too distant future.

MISS MARGARET HAUPT
Typing, Secretarial Training

Accuracy as well as speed is stressed in typing classes. Since many students go directly from high school to work in offices, Miss Haupt sets high standards of performance for her typing students.

MISS NELLE SEATH
Shorthand, Typing

Taking dictation keeps students below on their toes in shorthand class. For those who go directly to jobs, shorthand is invaluable. To the students who go on to college, the skill will help immeasurably in taking lecture notes.

Commerce

Familiarity with office machines is gained by bookkeeping students who seem engrossed in the lesson at hand. Besides gaining vocational training, they are equipping themselves to handle their own budgets more efficiently.

Editor Sue Shelton finds getting a yearbook to press is serious business as the staff rushes to meet deadlines. But hours spent in frantic activity are recalled with satisfaction as Scarabaeus reaches subscribers on schedule. Hours spent in planning and producing the yearbook have added immensely to the growth of staff members.

Mike, who attended Journalism Institute at Indiana University last summer in preparation for his job, takes it very seriously. LOUIS F. KEIFER CHAPTER
QUILL AND SCROLL

INTERNATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY
FOR HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS

Now in the second year of existence, the chapter has initiated 25 members to date. Members are pictured at an initiation tea held in their honor March 9 and attended by all students working on student publications, parents of initiates, English faculty members of the administration.

The chapter participated in the annual Quill and Scroll Current Events Quiz which is prepared by the Gallup Poll and is at work in the preparation of a style book for The Anvil.

The membership voted unanimously to name the chapter after Mr. Louis F. Keifer, vice-president and general manager of the Tribune-Star Publishing Company, Inc., who delivered the address at the first initiation ceremony last year.

To qualify for membership a student must be in the upper third of his class scholastically, he must be a junior or senior, he must do outstanding work in some of student publications, he must be recommended by the advisor and he must be accepted by the executive secretary at Iowa State University. Mrs. Mary Tranbarger sponsors the Tech chapter.

Prom Queen

The cafeteria is a popular spot for early morning breakfast as well as chatting with friends during noon luncheon. Tuesday and Thursday "pie" days are favorites. Mrs. Myrtle Hayden and Mrs. Betty Summers, cooks, are assisted by Ray Chilton as the luncheon line gets under way.

Familiar faces around Tech are those of the "clean-up crew" who go about their business of making school life more pleasant for all. Left to right: Roy Gaskins, Ray Burkhart, William Noppert, Mrs. Laura Goodrich, Leo Moore and Wallace Arbaugh.

In the fall of 1957 a group of students from the various junior high schools, entered the halls of Gerstmeyer to begin a four-year career of high school life.

Many were the tasks facing us as freshmen. First, we must make class schedules and take I. Q. tests. Second, we must get acquainted with the school and faculty. We didn't bother too much with extra-curricular activities until our sohomore year, when everything seemed to come alive. Some of the girls joined G. A. A. and the boys, of course, became interested in sports. Clubs also became one our interests this year.

The junior year appeared with a bustle of activities. Some of the students participated in the National Merit Scholarship tests in the fall.

The prom, our long awaited dream, at last came true after much planning and preparation. The Mayflower Room of the Terre Haute House was the scene of the prom. The class colors, powder blue and wihte, and the class flower, carnation, were used in the decorations.

We set aside one afternoon from our schedule to go to Indiana State College where we participated in Kiwanis Day. Here we learned of many businesses and careers which we could enter.

As seniors we were busy having pictures taken, selecting caps and gowns, ordering name cards and invitations and electing class officers. The officers serving the senior class were John Knott, president; Larry James, Vice-president; Sharon Chubb, secretary; and Larry Boyd, treasurer.

Winners again Yes, the fourth consecutive victory for the Magazine Drive was won by our class.

Every year a student is selected recipient of the D. A. R. award. Our class chose Elaine Carlson to receive this award.

The year soon "whizzed" by. Before we hardly realized what was happening we were practicing for graduation. Now, more than ever before, thoughts of the future found their way into our minds. We were no longer high school students but high school graduates. The world was challenging us and we were to accept that challenge by going out into the world with the thought in mind, we have been the "followers of today" and will soon be the "leaders of tomorrow."

Junior Class History

It's unbelievable, we juniors have been at Gerstmeyer three years. Those have been memorable years full of ball games, dances, club activities, and hours of study. This was the year of our long-awaited Junior Prom, the dance that will be on our minds many years after finishing our high school careers.

This year the class officers assumed more responsibility for the various activities. Danny Cox was elected president, with Rusty McIntosh as Vice President, Kenny Mars as treasurer and Beverly Shafer as secretary.

Our senior year has finally arrived and we will try our best to be the finest seniors in Gerstmeyer's history. We are looking forward to greater moments to remember.

Sophomore Class History

Sophisticated sophomores, that's what they call us. Well, no wonder, we've been here two years. We've been busy little bees getting acquainted with teachers, students and buildings.

There have been many busy moments. Clubs and extra curricular activities such as G. A. A. for girls and basketball for the boys were only highlights. We took Kuder and personality tests and we elected class officers which were Linda Knott, president; Stephen Eargle, vice president; Carol Garrett, secretary; and Russel Hatfield, treasurer.

Our high school careers half over, we are looking forward to bigger, better and busier goals to attain.

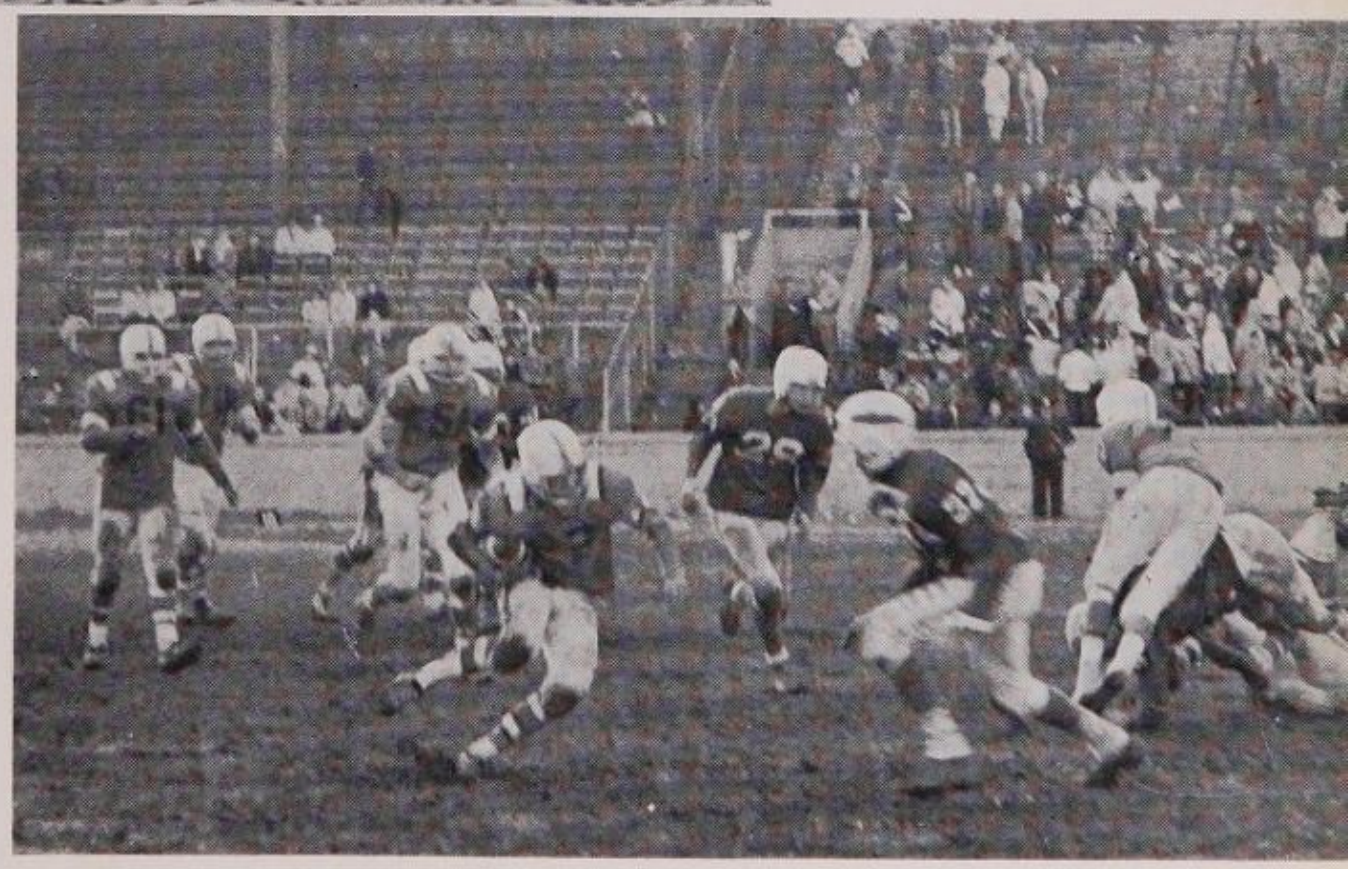
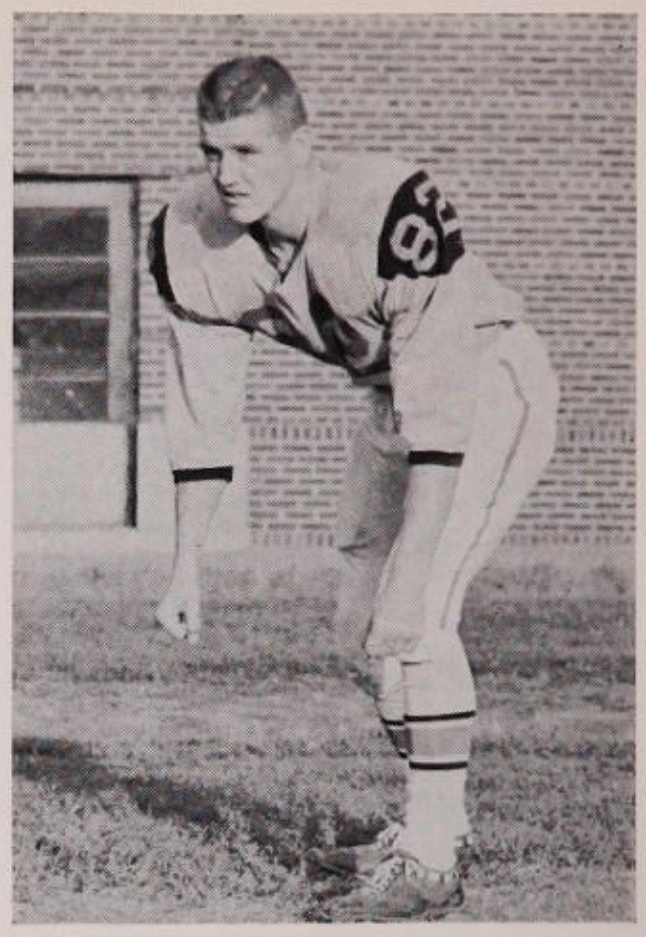
Gang tackling pays off as evidenced above.

We see Jake Balder on the move at right.



Larry Hayne, No. 88, was Tech's captain and most valuable player. Although Larry is not a large boy (5'9" and 166 lbs.) he surely was a giant on the gridiron. His devastating tackles and aggressive play from his end post made him one of the most feared players in the conference.

Larry was also a unanimous choice for the All City and Wabash Valley teams and runner-up on the All Western Indiana Team. Each year the Associated Press picks an All State team and although Larry did not make the first team, his determination won him honorable mention. Besides these many honors, he was chosen by the faculty to be the recipient of the Guy Stantz Memorial Trophy which is given on the basis of the individual's attitude toward athletic and academic endeavors.



Ernie Horrall, No. 5, led our team in every game. His passing and running ability made him a constant threat to our opponents. His ability as a quarterback won him honorable mention on the All Wabash Valley Team.

Bill Coons, No. 63, was pound for pound one of the most rugged players in the Valley. Bill's fine play won him the most valuable lineman award for the 1960 season. As a guard, Bill played every minute of a nine-game schedule. This year his vicious blocking and crushing tackles made him a mainstay on both offense and defense. Bill was also a member of the All Valley Team and runner-up on the All-Western Indiana Conference Team.

Gerstmeyer's Cross Country Team placed second in the Western Indiana Conference, third in the Wabash Valley and fourth in their sectional. The Black Cats took first honors in the VanBuren Invitational and won all their dual and triangular meets. The varsity squad is shown above and the first five individuals are pictured in action. Larry James, senior, was a leading runner and ran 10:07 on the Rea Park Course—the fastest any Gerstmeyer runner has been able to do.

VOCATIONAL - TECHNICAL - INDUSTRIAL - ADULT EDUCATION
VIGO COUNTY SCHOOL CORPORATION
GERSTMEYER TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

At the Gerstmeyer Technical High School, any student, boy or girl, may enroll on many different programs. He or she may take the general program, the college preparatory, fine arts, business education or practical arts program. This is true in the other high schools of our Corporation; however, at the Gerstmeyer Technical High School, a student may enroll on the vocational day trade program or the vocational home economics program.

Any student enrolling on the vocational program must meet the requirements for graduation from a commissioned high school the same as any student on any other program. Having met these requirements and graduated from high school, this same student may enter any college or university.

A student seeking vocational education completes the required academic work, for the most part, in the ninth and tenth grades and enters his or her vocational choice in the eleventh grade. Students in the ninth and tenth grades may explore the field of industrial arts by taking a number of courses on the general shop exploratory program. These general shop programs are on a rotating plan and by the time a student has finished the tenth grade, he will have completed the entire exploratory program and should be better able to select his specific area of vocational education.

In many areas students may elect industrial arts programs also. They take these industrial arts programs throughout their four years in high school even though they may not be on the vocational program.

Students electing the vocational program are encouraged to take all the science and mathematics they are able to carry; of course, they must meet the same English requirements as any and all other students.

After a student has completed his vocational program, he will have taken four full semesters of vocational training. He may elect to take four full semesters in one area or he may elect two areas. Upon completion and graduation, in addition to receiving his high school diploma, he may receive a vocational certificate also. These certificates are granted to vocational students who have completed the full program, who have had average or better grades in all areas and who have been recommended by their instructors for these certificates. The students find that the vocational certificates are invaluable to them wherever they go, whether it be in industry, the labor market or the armed services. This certificate shows that the student has satisfactorily completed work in the different areas assigned with technical and related information also provided.

The vocational education program offered at the Gerstmeyer Technical High School is the Type A program; thus each vocational student receives three consecutive clock hours of laboratory experience plus one hour each day of technical and related information.

In the other junior and senior high schools in the Corporation, programs of general shop and industrial arts are carried on.

The vocational day trade program at Gerstmeyer Technical High School is offered in the afternoon; thus the student, after lunch, may devote his entire afternoon to the area in which he has selected to work. The afternoon program seems to have many advantages over the morning in that it gives the student extra time if he chooses to work longer with his teacher. It also gives him ample time for cleaning his shop area, showers, wash-up, etc. The afternoon program is quite advantageous to the foundry students because they have ample time to complete heats and molding if the cupola or melting furnaces are operating.

In addition to these advantages, students in the senior year may be farmed out in industrial areas by their instructor. The senior student who is outstanding, upon recommendation from his instructor may work in the afternoon, receive trainee's pay and also be given credit for his work experience. The student must be assigned to the work area in which he is taking his vocational day trade program. This has proven most advantageous for the student in that he is receiving actual on-the-job training and upon completion of his high school work, in most cases, he is retained by the employer for full-time employment.

The foreman is devoted to academic and related subjects. The entire program of general shop and exploratory courses is offered in the forenoon; thus, any student in high school may explore these areas.

The cooperative plan mentioned above is one which is mutually agreed upon by and between the school officials, industry, the student and his parents. While the student is working under this cooperative plan, he will be supervised and daily reports will be kept by his foreman and filed each week with the instructor. If a report reaches the instructor stating that the student has been absent frequently or he has been doing poorly in his work, he is immediately called back into the vocational training area on the regular day trade program; thus, there must be full cooperation between the employer, school and student.

The student, of course, must be cooperative, dependable, honest, and devoted to the trade which he has chosen to follow if he is to work successfully in this program. The parent is familiar with the program and the student's whereabouts in that the parent signs an agreement with the student and school officials granting permission for the student to work in this type of situation. This releases the school from any liability of the student to and from his employment.

The student must devote at least three full hours daily to this employment and must have the interest for this program at heart. These students are leaders for the other group because they can explain working conditions, safety and all the different conditions under which students will be working upon graduation. These ideas are brought back and circulated among the students.

This is an incentive program for seniors. Many of them work more diligently in school if they now they have an opportnuity to be recommended in their senior year to earn as they learn. This program gives the senior extra money which he will need for his graduation expenses; it also assists those needy students who may be assisting their parents at home.

The industry or plant selecting these students agrees to work harmoniously with the instructor, director and school corporation at all times in order to give the student the best working conditions possible, the best supervision possible and, of course, assistance at all times from the supervisor and trainers. The employer further agrees to make every safety precaution available to eliminate work hazards for the learner; also, the student frequently passes on ideas which he has been taught in school which, in many cases, work out in the plant where he is employed.

The student is taught the dignity of work, how to get along with others, promptness, dependability, neatness and all the virtues that we look for in a finished and well-trained artisan.

Never do we attempt to farm out an entire class; just a select few from each area are recommended for this work program. The pay which the student receives while he is training varies depending on the type of work he is doing and the agreement which he and his employer entered into. We, as educators, assume no responsibility in setting up pay schedules between the employer and the student.

Vocational education is a part of the total program of education in the Vigo County School Corporation. It may differ in that much equipment is needed; techniques, aids, programming and qualification of teachers also vary.

Vocational education teachers not only have their academic and formal training, but each is required to have a background of industrial training in order to be a proficient teacher and qualify for a vocational license under the Smith-Hughes Act.

Vocational education deals with skills, knowledge and attitudes that fit individuals wholly or in part for specific vocations or occupations, the pursuit of which equips that individual for a successful livelihood.

General education emphasizes knowledge, skills and attitudes that are held to be useful for everyday successful living, in a broad sense, without reference or application to particular occupations, trades or special callings.

Fortunately, the two, vocational and general education, have appropriate useful functions. General and vocational education are interdependent, are related and both are essential and necessary for a complete well-rounded education.

WHAT IS VOCATIONAL EDUCATION?

Vocational education refers to the experiences that enable one to carry on successfully a socially, useful occupation.

Vocational education has reference to training for useful employment in trade and industrial, agricultural, business, homemaking, vocational-technical and other pursuits of less than college grade.

Vocational education means getting people ready and keeping them ready for the types of service we need.

Vocational education should equip the individual to secure a livelihood for himself and those dependent on him, to serve society well through his vocation, to maintain the right relationships toward his fellow workers and society and, as far as possible, to find in that vocation his own best development.

Vocational education should aim to develop an appreciation of the significance of the vocation to the community, and a clear conception of right relations between members of the chosen vocation, between different groups, between employer and employee, and between producer and consumer. These aspects of vocational education, heretofore neglected, demand emphatic attention.

Vocational education has reference to training for useful employment. It may be given to boys and girls, who, having selected a vocation, desire preparation for entering it as trained workers; to youth who, having already entered employment, seek greater efficiency in that employment; and to adult workers established in their trade or occupation who wish, through increase in their efficiency and wage earning capacity to advance to positions of responsibility.

Hildred Williams ..... Vocational Secretary

We are proud of our vocational education instructors. At the Gerstmeyer Technical High School, we find that practically all of the day trade vocational education teachers have completed their B.S. and M.S. Degrees from colleges and universities. In addition they have a background of industrial training which qualifies them under the Smith-Hughes Act as vocational education instructors.

Our teachers are encouraged throughout the year to do research, to attend conferences, to cooperate in workshops and summer sessions, to work in industry, and to keep abreast with modern trends. We are always encouraged to see our vocational educational teachers taking active part in local industry, business, working with the building trades groups and assisting in the urban and farm areas.

It is common knowledge and belief that a good industrial background, coupled with college training, produces the finest teacher. I am sure that many of our academic teachers would be more proficient if they had a general background or knowledge of how industry works, how labor is distributed and the many types of safety programs, teaching techniques and social problems which are present in industry and labor.

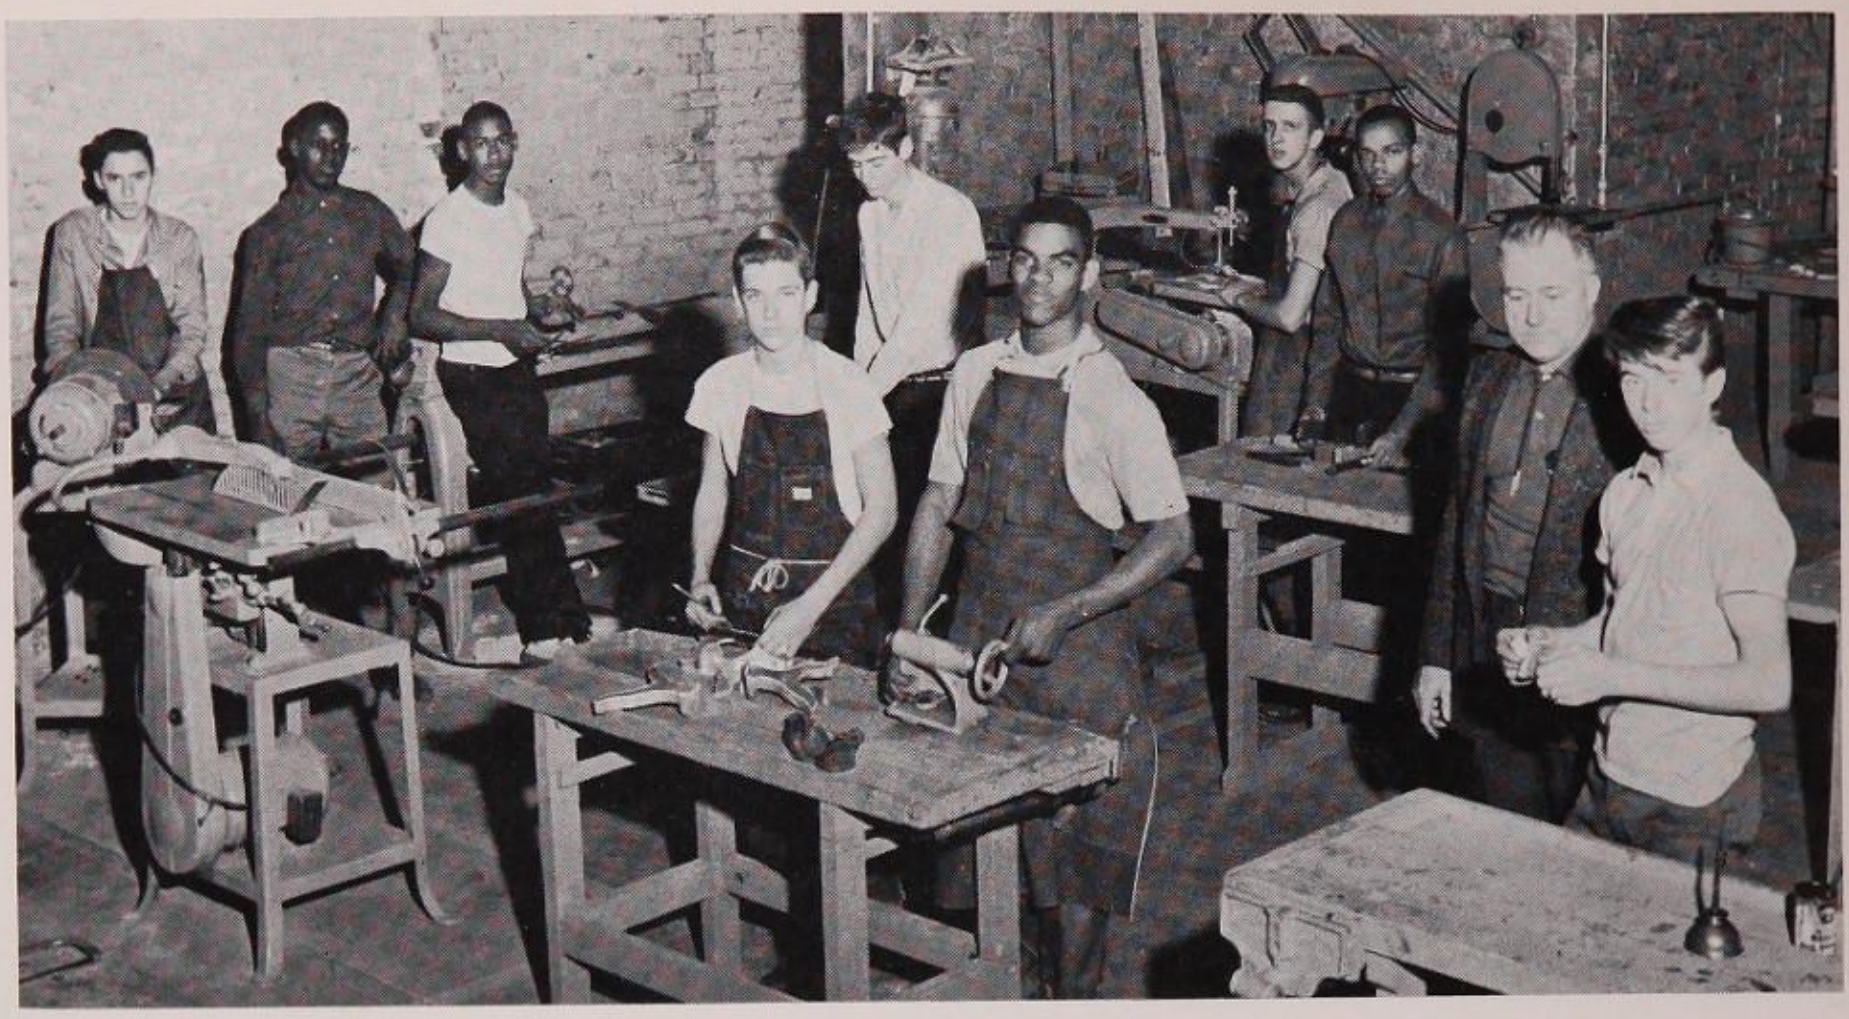
Educators in general will be stronger teachers if they possess a full knowledge of how labor, management and industry is geared to meet the needs and conditions of our citizenry.

Vocational Drafting — Donald Arnett, Instructor.

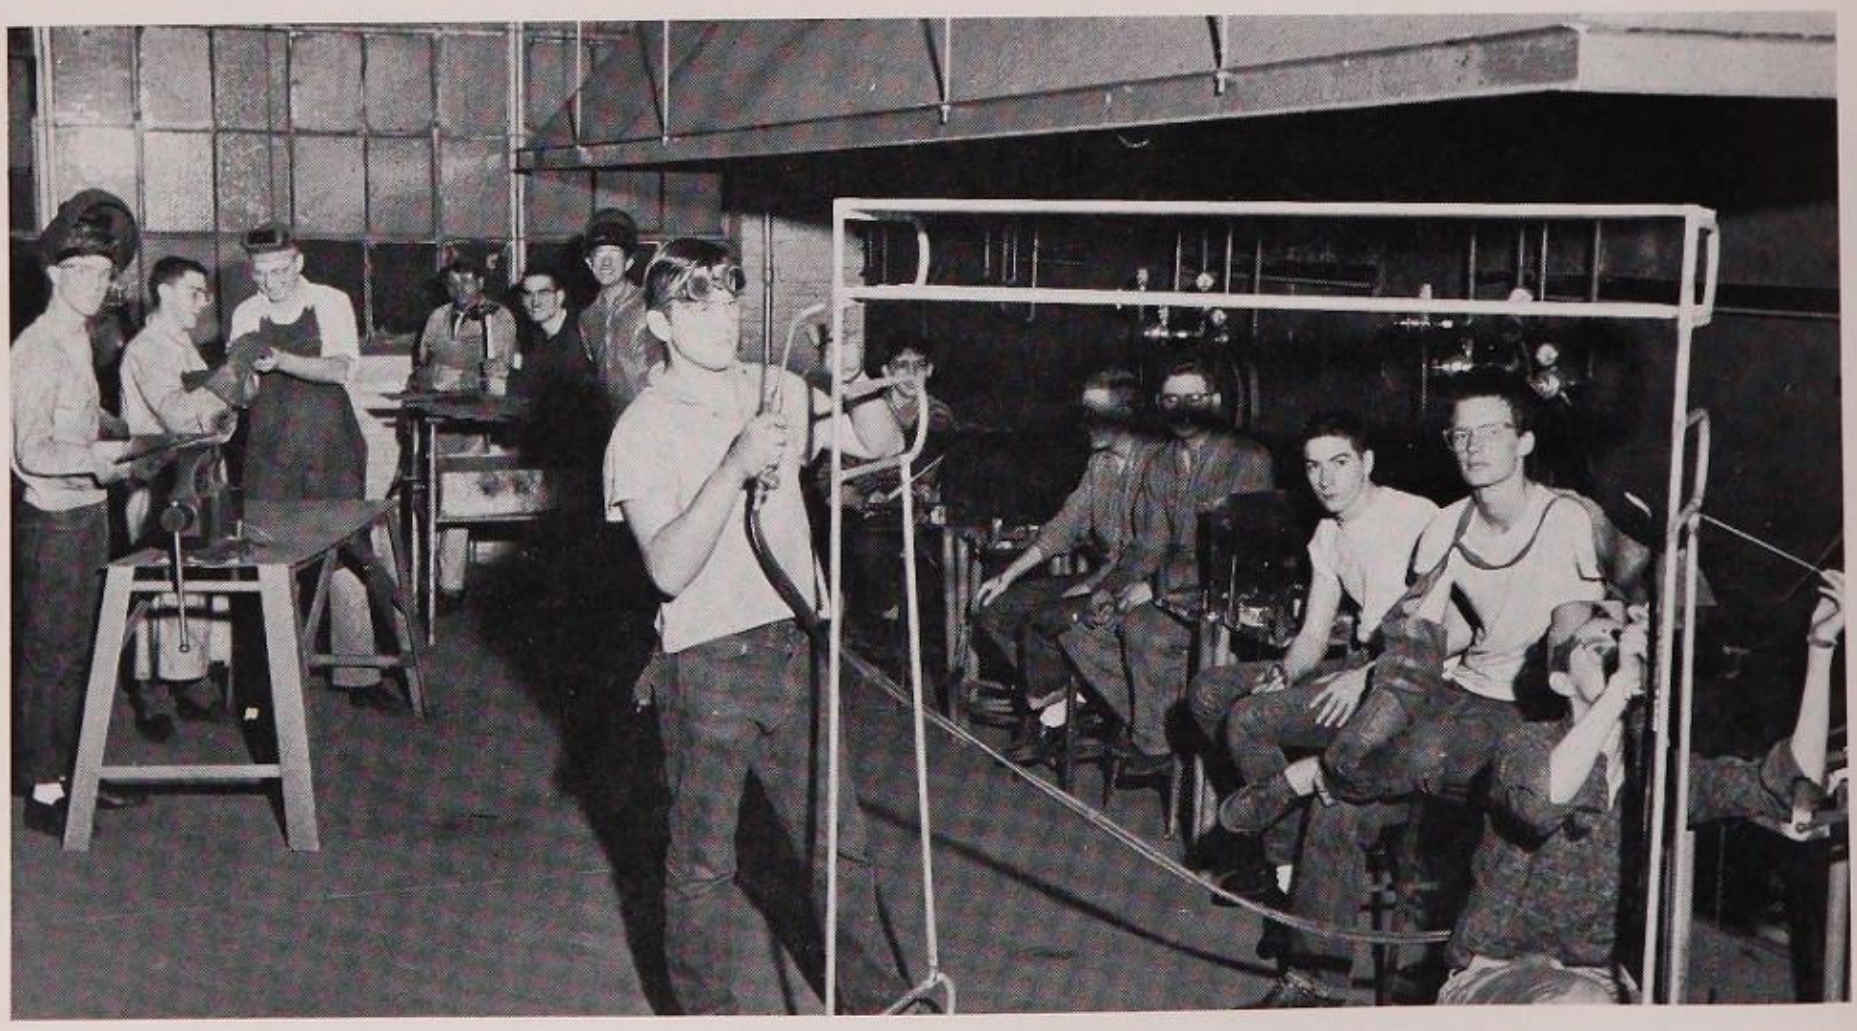
The drafting department which was previously located in the main building at Gerstmeyer Technical High School was moved to the former McKeen School Building, now known as the Vocational-Technical-Adult Education Center, 1421 Second Avenue.

The new drafting department has been re-wired with new fluorescent lighting; some new equipment has been purchased and the entire drafting department is housed in this building. The students like the new drafting facilities much better.

The area formerly occupied by the drafting department in the main building at Gerstmeyer has been remodeled into two mathematics classrooms.



Vocational Foundry & Patternmaking — Carl Ramsey, Instructor.



Vocational Electric & Acetylene Welding — Albert Mason, Instructor.

Vocational Printing — Typography — Roy Newman, Instructor

Vocational Printing - Presswork — Roy Newman, Instructor.

Vocational Machine Tool Operations — Lloyd Hawkins, Instructor.

Vocational-Technical-Adult Education Advisory Committee

VIGO COUNTY SCHOOL CORPORATION

This committee is one which is highly selective and represents management, labor, industry and special services. We are fortunate in having dedicated people who devote their time and talents in order that our total program will be effective and meet the needs of our community. This total committee is appointed by the Board of School Trustees upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools.

Frequent meetings are held to determine the needs, facilities, teaching personnel, and new areas which may be developed for the community. The committee works in cooperation with the Board of School Trustees, the Superintendent of Schools, the Director of Vocational-Technical-Adult Education, instructors, labor, management, and industry in evaluating the present program and determining the needs for the future.

This committee is highly interested in the total planning and facilities of our community which might be made available for vocational-technical-adult education programs in the coming years. It is the hope of all that in the final stages of planning, adequate facilities will be available to all groups — high school, post high school, and older groups — who wish to further their training needs.

If our industrial community is to grow and prosper, we must see to it that we have ample, well-trained people to assume responsibilities and to fill the jobs as they may become available.

BUILDING TRADES PROGRAM

C. Huston Isaacs, Director
Vocational-Technical Education

Howard R. Turner
Vocational Coordinator-Building Trades

The building trades program is coordinated by Mr. Howard Turner who meets and works with the joint apprenticeship committees, the business agents, and executives from local labor unions in setting up programs for apprentices and journeymen.

Courses are organized for aprentices who are working in their respective trades and attend our evening program for technical and related information as required under their apprenticeship standards. Most apprentices are indentured for a period of four years; thus they will be receiving technical and related information during the entire four years.

These are cooperative programs arranged through the joint apprenticeship committees. Instructors are usually trade-trained men from their local union.

After the apprentice completes his apprenticeship training, he may be enrolled in advanced courses as a journeyman. The Journeyman technical and related courses are offered in the same manner as the apprentice training program only on a more advanced level and for different periods of time.

During the past year apprenticeship training was offered in electricity (construction), plumbing, steamfitting, sheet metal layout and drawing.

Journeymen courses in electric, acetylene, and heliarc welding, heating, air conditioning and refrigeration, leadwiping and installation of fixtures were offered.

The state contest for aprentice plumbers was held in Terre Haute last summer. This contest is set up for three or four days in order to judge apprentices on different plumbing operations. Apprentices from locals throughout the state were evaluated and judged by a selected group of judges from different parts of the state.

The coordinator meets with the instructors, the joint apprenticeship committees and the journeyman committees in working out plans, setting up criteria for the trainees, etc.

Evaluations are being carried on at all times to determine benefits received through vocational-technical and related training. Supervisors, foremen, journeymen, business agents and all concerned remark that much improvement can be seen in the planning and working of apprentices who have received training under these organized programs.

TERRE HAUTE INDUSTRIAL TRAINING PROGRAM

C. Huston Isaacs, Director
Vocational-Technical Education

Milton E. Schlatter
Industrial Coordinator-Supervisor

Many technical courses are offered for men and women, most of whom are presently employed in industrial establishments throughout this area. Most of these courses are taught by instructors chosen from industry, management, and labor.

The industrial electricity and industrial electronics programs which were inaugurated last year under Title VIII, National Defense Education Act, have proven to be outstanding courses. These courses are designed to permit the learner to progress at his own speed and capabilities.

The Terre Haute Postal Training Program which was launched in 1959 has continued and presently is being offered in cooperation with the local postal service and the Chamber of Commerce. This program is especially designed for those people handling mail and is taught by trained instructors chosen from the postal department.

Enrollees are chosen from supervisory personnel in business and industry who are charged with the mailing from those plants. They are taught the proper procedures in mailing, packaging, and time-saving and money-saving angles are stressed. Proper mailing not only expedites the flow of mail and in many cases effects a saving of time and money to the plant, but it also makes the mailing situation easier for the postal handlers.

Mr. Schlatter has worked with these groups in setting up conferences, visual aids, mockups, and other materials.

These classes meet at the Vocational-Technical-Adult Education Center.

Terre Haute Industrial Management Development Program

William J. Walters
Coordinator

The Terre Haute Industrial Management Development Program is now in its fourth year. Approximately 400 people were trained this past year under the sponsorship of local industrial plants in cooperation with the vocational education department. The facilities at Indiana State Teachers College, Industrial Education Building, were again used for this program.

Mr. William J. Walters has served as coordinator for this program. In addition to coordinating this program, he is a full-time employee of Allis-Chalmers Corporation and is familiar with plant procedures and operations.

Conference leaders are selected from top management, trained and become the key people in this training program.

The cost of the program is borne by industrial and manufacturing plants of this locality. Courses taught are ones which have been recommended and planned through the governing committee and are based upon the needs of the local community. These courses vary from time to time; however, many of the courses have been offered during the four years since they are still popular and in demand.

The following courses were offered during the past year: Case Studies in Human Relations, Communications, Cost Control, Customer Relations, Elements of Foremanship, Getting Along With People, Industrial Economics, Reading Improvement, Report Writing, Speech Craft, and Work Simplification.
